Transfiguration Sunday
February 14, 2010
Eleven o'clock in the morning

∞ Keeping the heart of the University listening to the heart of God ∞

"The Transfiguration," by Carl Heinrich Bloch, c. 1870s.

Today is Transfiguration Sunday, which marks the last Sunday before the season of Lent. On this Sunday, we read texts that link Epiphany and Lent. The gospel lesson echoes the proclamation from Jesus' baptism, "This is my Son, my Chosen; listen to him!" Transfiguration Sunday also represents the turning point when Jesus leaves his ministry in Galilee and moves towards Jerusalem and the cross. In this shift, we are invited to reflect upon Jesus' identity through the revelations of the season of Epiphany and the Lenten journey to his death on Good Friday.

OFFERTORY ANTHEM

O nata lux (from Lux aeterna)

Morten Lauridsen
(b. 1943)

O nata lux de lumine, Jesu redemptor saeculi, dignare clemens supplicum laudes preces que sumere. Qui carne quondam contegi, dignatus es pro perditis. Nos membra confer effici tui beati corporis.

O born light of light, Jesus, redeemer of the world, mercifully deem worthy the praises and prayers of thy supplicants. Thou who once deigned to be clothed in flesh for the sake of the lost ones, grant us to be made members of thy holy body.

THANKSGIVING AND COMMUNION

This morning we give thanks for the Duke University School of Law. We celebrate its dedication to training students to be servants of local and global communities through their passion for the law and their pursuit of justice. A representative brings a gavel to the altar.

In Durham we lift up those who strive to tell truthful local histories. A representative brings forward a tobacco leaf.

*THE LORD'S PRAYER (number 895 in the hymnal, in unison)

SHARING OF THE BREAD AND WINE

All those who have become members of Christ's body through baptism and seek to be united with God and at peace with their neighbor are invited to receive communion. Wine is used for communion. The tradition as understood at Duke Chapel is that the Holy Spirit makes Christ fully present in both the bread and the wine. If you receive only the bread, be assured that you are nonetheless in full communion with Christ and the Church. You may also come forward to receive a blessing, indicated by crossing your arms over your chest.

If you would like to receive individual anointing with oil and prayers for healing, ministers will be in the Memorial Chapel during communion.

CHAPEL ANNOUNCEMENTS

TODAY'S FLOWERS—The flowers for the worship service today are given to the glory of God by the Erlenbach Family Trust.

TODAY'S OFFERING—All of today's cash offerings and undesignated checks will be used to support human service organizations in the greater Durham area. These nonprofit organizations are identified to receive funds by a panel of Congregation members, Friends, and students. The grant-making process not only benefits people in need, but also seeks to introduce students to faithful stewardship and community development.

ASH WEDNESDAY SERVICES—Duke Chapel will have two services (8:00 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.) on Ash Wednesday, February 17. Steven Hinkle, interim director of Religious Life, will offer a homily, and there will be an opportunity to receive the imposition of ashes. The 5:30 p.m. service will include the Duke Vespers Ensemble. Ash Wednesday marks the first day of the season of Lent, which occurs 40 days prior to Easter Sunday (not including the 6 Sundays, which are considered feast days and not counted as days of penance). Lent is traditionally a season of repentance and fasting.

CHRISTIANITY AND CAPITALISM—Duke Chapel PathWays will host a panel discussion titled "Can a Good Christian be a Good Capitalist?: A Panel on Faith, Money and Markets," at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, February 18, in McClendon Tower Level 5. The panel will include representatives from Duke Divinity School, Fuqua School of Business, the Economics Department, and Self-Help of Durham. Dean Sam Wells will moderate. Students, faculty, staff, congregation members, and local residents are all warmly invited to attend.

ORGAN RECITAL—Next Sunday, February 21, Prof. Michael Radulescu (Vienna/Lübeck) will present an organ recital at 5:00 p.m. in Duke Chapel. The program will consist of works by J. S. Bach and his own composition RESURREXIT. On the preceding Thursday, February 18, at 4:00 p.m., he will give a lecture in Goodson Chapel on "Martin Luther's Theology as an Essential Source for the Interpretation of J. S. Bach's Music." A reception will follow, at which time Prof. Radulescu will present his own recordings of the complete works of Bach to the University as a special gift.
